POSSIP

THE ORIGINS OF POSSIP

Shani Dowell is a wife, a mother, and former teacher who has led multiple education organizations.

In October of 2016, she and the three people she loved most—her husband and two children—were all encountering the breakdown in communication between schools and parents.

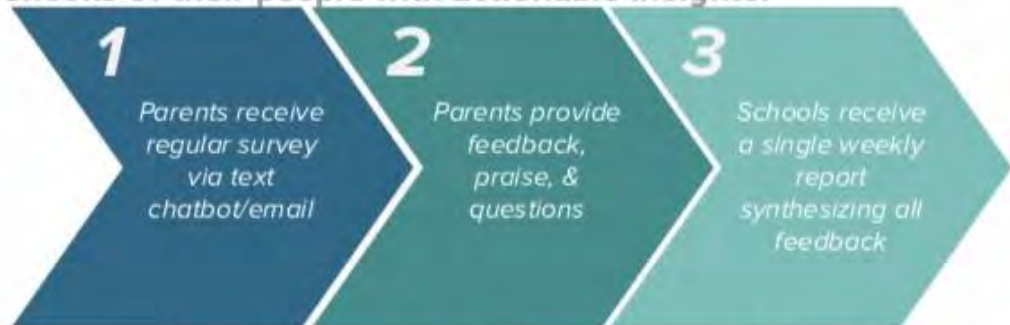

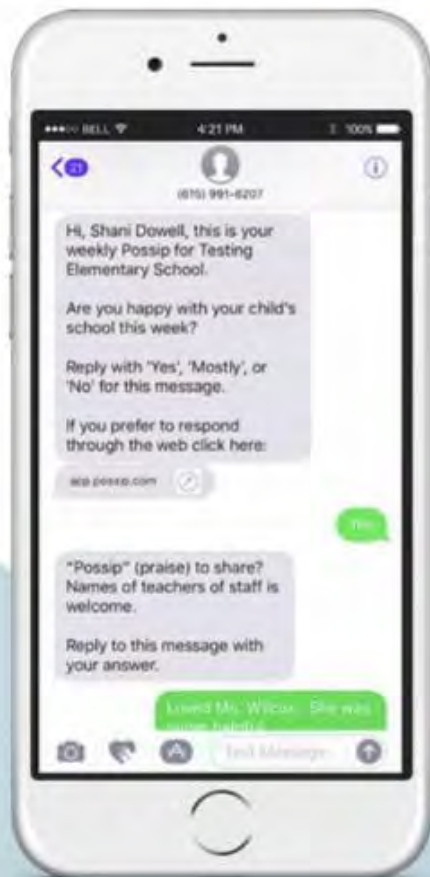

Shani's husband, an educator, was dealing with a small parent issue that, due to a lack of viable feedback channels, had become a big issue - taking up time and creating stress for him, his team, and his teachers.

At the same time Shani, as the mother of two kids, saw her own personal challenges providing candid and timely praise and feedback to her children's schools.

Shani saw the opportunity to use feedback to put parents and schools on the same team. Within a year of formal launch Possip had 15 subscribing schools – and due to word of mouth has grown to over 150 schools.

HOW POSSIP WORKS

Possip gives schools access to weekly pulse checks of their people with actionable insights.
